The Multiplier Effect

We’re all innately better at some things than others—these are our natural talents, hardwired in our brains. But these talents alone aren’t strengths.

To cultivate a strength, we need to invest through study (acquire knowledge) and practice (develop skill). Once we do, we multiply the power of our talent and create powerhouse capability.

TALENT (raw & natural)

| 1 | 5 | 5 |

INVESTMENT (study & practice)

| 5 | 1 | 4 |

STRENGTH (capability)

| 5 | 5 | 20 |
MY STRENGTHS ADVANTAGE WORKSHOP

1. The Clifton StrengthsFinder*
Participants are sent a note from the leader that explains the workshop and its purpose. As preparation, they’re asked to complete the Clifton StrengthsFinder survey—an online questionnaire that takes about 35 minutes to complete. When participants are finished the questionnaire, they can instantly see a list of their Top 5 Strengths.

2. Phone Interpretations (optional)
Reach Capabilities sets up one-on-one phone calls with each participant or with selected team members only, depending on the wishes of the leader. In these 60-minute calls, we provide a more detailed interpretation of the person’s Top 5 Strengths. Participants have the chance to ask questions.

3. Team Assessment
The team leader is given a Strengths Inventory that outlines the diversity of strengths in the work group. We provide guidance on how best to use these strengths, both in one-on-one development and in maximizing team productivity.

4. My Strengths Advantage Workshop
This half-day interactive workshop covers concepts and exercises to help participants understand and use their strengths effectively. You’ll discover:
- The compelling advantage of managing strengths
- Why focusing on strength is the only way to achieve extraordinary leadership
- The benefit of using the diverse strengths of the group
- Insights and raw material for personal development planning
- Ways to improve your one-on-one coaching and mentoring
- How to link StrengthsFinder results to existing tools and methodologies already in use at your organization

Workshop Resources
Each participant is given a set of useful take-away tools, such as Insight Action Guides and a reference booklet. These materials help participants bring the learning back to their daily work. As a result, the workshop becomes a starting point, not the end, of strengths-based action and understanding.
